Laura Del Sindaco

Graphic Account & Producer - Dolce&Gabbana

When I applied for NABA I was still unclear about my future career. At NABA I acquired new knowledge and skills that allowed me to grow from a personal point of view and gave me solid professional preparation. I had the opportunity to analyze different aspects of communication and graphics, from theory to praxis: lectures, designing digital layouts, photography workshops and mock-ups preparations for finals.

Three years after my graduation, I now know that everything I learned at NABA allowed me to face my job with enthusiasm and continuous curiosity.

I consider myself an incurable dreamer unable to stop my imagination. Thanks to NABA I can work finding solutions using my creativity to be applied to the reality. The most important things I have learned are the highest attention to details and how to create simple but meaningful solutions whenever a problem arises.

I really love my job and it’s wonderful that my creativity is the main ingredient that allow me to stand out.
